

Calling All Heelers!

Red & Blue!

It's the Australian Cattle Dog Club of Canada (ACDCC) National Specialty Just For You!

There are a limited number of spaces in the ACDCC National Specialty herding events. Don't let your dogs down. This is their time to show off their: compact, powerful muscles; obedient intellect and skillful cattle and sheep movement.

It is a scientifically proven fact that cattle dogs dream of this glorious weekend on a regular basis. Scientists have confirmed that blue heelers prefer attending the ACDCC National Specialty over annual breeding sessions. Dr. Blucow held several focus groups to determine the reasons why Australian Cattle Dogs are anticipating this year's event with such enthusiasm. Dogspeak interpretation of the top three reasons is as follows:

#1

“This year is the first ever CKC Stock Dog Trials on CATTLE! Rumor has it we get to put 7 to 14 head of cattle through a variety of obstacles encompassing over 2 acres of outdoor trial arena”

#2

“It is one of the largest social gatherings that I just cannot miss. The 2007 event has attracted Australian Cattle Dogs from all over the world (Canada, US, Germany, Australia, etc.) to come and compete in:

- Conformation
- Obedience
- Ranch Trials on Cattle
- Arena Trials on Cattle
- All Breed Arena Trials on Sheep

And this year the ACDCC specialty is held the day after the ACDCA National Specialty less than 2 hours drive away! My human can travel to the Pacific Northwest once and take me to both specialties! And, oh my Dog, the ACDCC awards banquet will be a blast!

#3

“This year they are having a cattle ‘Canuk Cowdog Challenge’ trial and a Calcutta Auction. My human was reading about the entry information, trial rules and guidelines at www.acdcc.ca. My human had so much fun at last year's ACDCC specialty; she doesn't stop yapping about it!”

There you have it folks, your cattle dogs are anxiously waiting for you to enter this year's event.
